Rezin Orthopedics Physician Obtains Subspecialty Certificate

January 25th, 2008 –Stephen Treacy, MD, orthopedic surgeon with Rezin Orthopedics and Sports Medicine recently obtained his Subspecialty Certificate in Orthopaedic Sports Medicine from the America Board of Orthopaedic Surgery. The passing of this exam further establishes his Sports Medicine Specialty and is held in conjunction with his current board certification in General Orthopaedics.

Prior to continuing his education with his most recent certificate, Dr. Treacy graduated from the University Of Illinois School Of Medicine, Chicago in 1990, and did an internship and residency at Tulane University School of Medicine in New Orleans. In addition, he completed a fellowship in Sports Medicine from the Mississippi Sports Medicine and Orthopaedic Center.

As a general surgeon, Dr. Treacy covers all aspects of adult and pediatric orthopedics. He Sub-Specializes in Sports Medicine concentrating in arthroscopic surgery and focuses on injuries of the knee, shoulder, elbow, wrist and hand.
